Another Week When one realizes that the "Flower of the Ranch," Joseph E. Howard's most successful masical comedy, written two years ago, has spent its Snowy Undergarments for infancy entirely in the larger cities, Women, Misses and Children.

It is not surprising that the demand for the play has been big. This splendid comedy has visited only a few of the states and when i makes his first tour into the South this season there is no question as to how only one company sent forth and it will take a long time to cover the entire states, to say nothing of Can ada. This strong attraction will b at the King Feb. 2, with a metropo itan cast and chorus of forty.
